“ It's been a year now and I still don't know how any of is Tucker girls will go through life without stumbling like fools in the darkness. You're still our light. My hope is that your extremely wonderful fatherhood is passed on to those who want to be great fathers. My sisters and I have one Heavenly Father and one earthly father in common. You and momma were here to connect us to the father who will rekindle our earthly existence for eternity. Thank you for being such a decent husband, daddy, son, uncle, grandfather, great grandfather, brother and child of God. Your love is eternal, your impression on others is contagious. Thank you Daddy.

“ It was a joy and privilege to know and work with Ronnie. Like Lynette Wright, Ronnie was a Duke co-worker. He was always a happy person that enjoyed people. Ronnie was as obviously devoted to his wife and family as he was proud of them. I know he blessed many lives both at work and elsewhere. Although he's gone on to his reward, may your memories comfort you. God bless you all with peace and strength.

“ Ronnie and I worked together in the same department for Duke Energy. He was a genuinely nice and funny person. He used to tell me I had the most beautiful name (Lynette), then would laugh because his daughter shared the same name. I can't remember ever seeing him in a bad mood, no matter what our work day was like, and that made it a pleasure to work with him. I know he will be so missed by his family and friends. May the Lord bless you all with strength, healing and peace, as you adjust to your tremendous loss.
