“ Kind, loving, and always willing to help someone. My first cousin on my daddy's side, and when I was a child, I thought he was beautiful, and had a toddlers crush. He was what a man should be. If something needed to be done, he got it done. I spent a lot of time with Tony, and Sandra growing up. My teenage years, he was there willing, ready and able to protect me, just like my daddy would've done. Like an older brother more than anything. Big families, you know. I have stories to tell. For that, I thank him. I've passed all of those wonderful stories of my memories onto my children. At this very moment, I'm still thinking about racing horses, and jumping terraces. If you really knew him, then you know. If you didn't have the honor to be blessed to know him, you missed out.
